

INTERNATIONAL SUMMER SCHOOL
"University Didactics"

June 19 - 23,
2023

University
Siegen
Germany

The summer school on university didactics is designed for young university lecturers of all disciplines. It serves to expand the repertoire of teaching methods beyond classical teaching. Relevant topics are addressed, discussed and clarified: How do we humans learn? What processes in the brain lead to the storage of new knowledge? What can I do as an academic teacher to develop good, learner-centred teaching based on this knowledge? How do I formulate learning objectives and how do I build a course? How does digitalization affect teaching?

Since own experiences have the most sustainable learning effect, you as participants will be strongly involved and get to know didactic elements through hands-on exercises. In addition, you will receive many practical tips that you can immediately implement in your courses.

A certificate will be awarded to each participant at the end of the seminar.
